[Arapahoe Mirror.]

her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Child. * * Jos.
A. Snyder was down from McCook, last week, planting out ten acres of trees on his timber claim.

[York Republican.]
Mr. Green came in from Red Willow county, last week and is visiting his brothers Charles and George. * * J. Harvey Bell was up to Mc-Cook with J. C. Kingsley and his son Henry,

* * On Monday Dr. Howard sold 29 head of fat cattle to parties in the Republican Valley. A portion were shipped to Indianola and the remainder to McCook.

[Frontier Co. Faber.]
Jerome Lewis, of McCook, came up to Stock-ville, last Monday, to look at his timber claim and arrange for the breaking required to be done on it. He was well pleased with the land and will hang on to it like grim death to its victim.

[Lincoln News.]
John Dunbar, proprietor of the first livery, sale and feed stable ever located in Lincoln, is now one of the proprietors of the new town of Wano, Kansas. Mr. D. is in the city to-day, purchasing stock for his stables there, and Benkleman and Wano mail stage line.

[Oberlin Eye.]
H. W. Pike has sold out his lumber yards at McCook and Indianola and will soon start a yard at Oberlin. He was down, this week, selecting a location for his yard and made us a pleasant call. Mr. Pike is already well known to the citizens of Oberlin, as a straight-forward and energetic business man, and we are glad to welcome him to Oberlin.

[Atwood (Kas.) Democrat.]
J. D. Newton of McCook, passed through here, Thursday, with 85 horses, 17 of them registered. It was the finest herd of mares that has gone through here, this spring. He takes them from Wallace north for breeding purposes. * * Lew Ginger was to McCook, last Saturday. There is a possibility of Mr. Ginger branching out as an editor in Cheyenne county.
Bird City will be the place if he does.

[Culbertson Sun.]
On Sunday last, C. A. Parish, accompanied by R. C. Stern, started out for a drive. When near McCook, one of the horses suddenly began to kick, and almost at the first motion kicked the front end of the buggy and struck Stern on the side. In attempting to escape a second blow from the horse's heels, Stern was thrown from the buggy and the wheels passing over him fractured a rib or two. The team got loose from the buggy and ran on through McCook, one of the horses going a considerable distance beyond before being caught.
Parish stuck to the buggy and escaped unhurt.

The following little incident of the strike at Denver stands forth promi-nently without precedent in railroad circles: General Manager Clark of the Union Pacific was in Denver, week before last, on his way to Georgetown.
During his stay in the city he was honored by a visit from a committee of the Knights of Labor, who demanded an increase of wages. Upon the general manager's refusal to concede their demand, he was calmly informed, that in the humble opinion of the committee, the climate of Colorado did not accord with his physical wants, and that they had decided that Nebraska was more salubrious. The manager's car was taken into the shops, and the change of trucks from narrow to broad gauge was made, and at the hour and day appointed his special car was drawn into the Union depot, and Mr. Clark boarded the train and left for Omaha in compliance with the committee's request. And strange as it may seem the very man, who ordered Mr. Clark out of the state is now working in the Union Pacific shops at Denver.

The London Times says, in an editorial upon the death of Victor Hugo, the great French poet and literateur, who died last Friday:

"This event is one that touches the whole civilized world. Victor Hugo was by common consent the greatest poet since Goethe. To all, even to realists in literature, the chief of the romanticists, was until the last a being regarded differently from other men. Posterity will doubtless modify this judgment, but it will at the same time admit that much may be urged in its support." The Standard says, "Victor Hugo did not attain the highest literary rank, but he was a generous and magnificent lyricist whose music will long haunt the ear of mankind."

SOME Kansas City aldermen recently had a "slight misunderstanding" with a reporter in that city, in the which the reporter gracefully and artistically draped numerous optics, and peeled sundry nasal appendages, and otherwise disfigured their aldermanic proportions. In justice to the aldermen it should be stated that they did not know that the reporter was once a professor in a boxing school.

The Daily Electric Light published at North Platte is a welcome visitor to our sanctum. The editor is a little severe and unjust in his recent comment on this paper, for which we feel that he will make full amends after a close observation of our columns.

A cow-boy in a recent Montana cattle case testified that "a maverick is somebody else's calf that you get your own brand on first." It would be interesting to have the cow-boy's definition of mugwump.—Inter-Ocean.
